Asia is rich with colourful cultures, each one with its own uniqueness. Japan is seen as one of the most fascinating one of them. There are plenty of reasons to date a Japanese woman and this article highlights 5 really good ones.

Reason no. 1 – They're Kawaii (Cute and adorable).

Japanese women are synonymous to cute. They are adorable to the bone and that makes it very difficult for Western men to resist them. Try to picture how these ladies have mastered balancing seductive with cute all at the same time. You should beware, though. This combination gives them a lot of power and some of them may use it to manipulate and exploit men.

Reason no. 2 – They are kind of obsessed with hygiene.

The Japanese definitely love their cleanliness – it is known across the world. From keeping their cities very clean to their public toilets, everything must be neat. Even the smokers have their little portable ashtray to collect the ashes of their cigarettes. That translates into the attitude Japanese ladies have – they love keeping things tidy. That is a great attribute for when you get into a serious relationship. You can be sure that there won't be a mess at your house.

Reason no. 3 – They are kind.

Japanese women are generally very polite. No matter what happens in the relationship they will not try to offend you. They will go out of their way to make sure you are comfortable because they are taught to put other people's needs ahead of their own. It is something very typical in the Japanese culture. When you get into a relationship with them you can be sure that there won't be too many fights.

Reason no. 4 – They are very loyal

Japanese women hold the nationalistic attitude of their country. They are incredibly loyal to their home, their traditions and culture. That also translates into the relationship as loyalty. They will be loyal the entire length of the relationship. You're probably tired of girls who are unhappy with what they have – with Japanese women, you never have to worry about any of that.

Reason no. 5 – They love offering presents.

Japanese people love to give others gifts and it is part of their culture. They will give gifts when they move in next to you, they give gifts to new co-workers on their first day, they will remember your kid's birthday and so on. They also love to give you handmade things and also food they have cooked themselves. These are some lovely gestures you will receive if you choose to date a Japanese woman.
