If you're serious about finding a partner or just casual dating, you should try to look your best for each date. It's not a silly idea to spend some money on new clothes and sneakers while looking for that perfect lady. Ladies often take note on the type of shoes that you wear. If you don't have new clothes, ensure that the old ones you have are clean and well fitting.

Read and watch news every once in a while so you'd know what's happening around you. Most ladies prefer men who are educated and able to prove it by having sophisticated talks. Therefore, you have to be updated by reading different periodicals, listening to news and even playing radios.

Also, don't expect your partner to follow you home after your first date. If you're serious about finding a partner for a long time, there's nothing that displays your intentions with her better than being patient and waiting for her to be ready. For a lot of girls, sharing a bed on a first meeting won't lead to anything more serious or long lasting.

People do a lot in their preparation towards a date. Naturally, who wouldn't want to leave a good first impression. Remember to give sincere compliments to your partner. Even if you are not that crazy about the clothes she chose, you can tell her what you like about her appearance in a nice way.

How you feel around each other and the spark there is between you and your partner is another important tip. It's a positive sign when you find her always touching your arm or shoulder and smiling a lot. If she doesn't seem interested at all, don't waste your time with her. There is plenty more fish in the sea.
